THE MURDERER RESIGNED TO HIS FATE. HUSBAND AND WIFE PARTING-A STIMULANT AD-

MINIST RED-LOOKING DEATH IN THE FACE. Edward Hovey, the condemned murderer, woke at 70 clockyesterday morning after a restless night. He looked pale, haggard and despondent, and ate sparingly of his breakfast of fried eggs and coffee. Father Duranquet called on him at 80 clock, and remained with him a short time in his cell. The Rev. Dr. Guithert, of the Episcopal Church of the Holy Spirit, spent several hours with him at various times during the day. The work of creeting the gallows was begun early in the morning, and the noise made by the workmen could be distinctly heard throughout the prison. Hovey's face turned a shade paler when the ominous sounds fell on his ear. His father, brooher, wife and sister paid their last visits to him in the afternoon and remained with him until nearly 5 o'clock. When the party came out of the corridor known as "Murderers' Kow," where the cell of the condemned man is situated, each member seemed deeply affected, and Mrs. Hovey's grief was quite ancontrollable. She sobbed bitterly and as she passed the open space where the completed gallows stood she buried her face in her hands. Dr. Guilbert supported her to the prison-gate on the Franklin-st. side.

Hovey, with his hands in his poekets, gazed wistfully toward the door out of which had just passed than any of his relatives. A few minutes after his relatives had left him the condemned man was transferred by Warden Finn to the hospital cell in the corridor opposite Murderer's Row and orders were given to allow none in the corridor but those who were to watch the condemned man throughout the night.

Up to 8 o'clock last night Hovey was restless, and he paced nervously to and for in front of his cell. Edward Hovey, the condemned murderer, woke at the night.

Up to 8 o'clock last night Hovey was restless, and he paced nervously to and fro in front of his cell. He had eaten nothing since breakfast, and he complained of feeling weak. After consultation with Dr. Fitch it was decided to allow him some stimulants, and he was given a glass of whiskey. This seemed to have a quieting effect on his nerves, and he had a long conversation with the Rev. Dr. Guilbert. About half-past 8 his counsel, William F. Kintzing, called in to bid him good-by. After conversing with him for some minutes, Hovey called for an egg which he ate with relish. He appeared quite cheerful, and expressed himself as ready to meet his fate manfally. He forgave freely any person who may have sought to do him an injury, he said, and he hoped that he would be forgiven for his misdeeds. The statement that he did not beheve in a future state, he said, was false, and the hope of meeting his mother and children in heaven had more than anything else prevented him from breaking down. At 10 o'clock Commissioner Thomas 8. Brennan called, and staid bout an hour.

Mr. Kintzing said that he was surprised to note the change that had taken place in Hovey's condition. He found that he was willing to converse freely in regard to his death and he appeared to feel the disgrace which would attach to his fannily more than his own fate. He had no doubt that Hovey would keep up a irm bearing to the last.

LAST HONORS TO WALSH THE BURGLAR.

As early as 1:30 p. m. yesterday the friends and associates of John F. Walsh, the dead burglar, began to gather at No. 362 East Tenth-st. to attend the funeral. At 8:30 a. m. an undertaker placed the body in a hundsome silver-mounted rosewood coffin. The inscription read: "John F. Walsh, Born February 18, 1853; died October 16, 1883." On the top of the coffin were a number of foral designs. After the undertaker had finished his work the friends of the dead man were allowed to look at his face. His mother and four sisters were in the room and seemed to be overcome with grief. In the house the people conducted themselves quietly. In the street there was a large and rough crowd, but there was no disturbance, and the single policeman who was present had no difficulty in preserving order. The coffin was brought out of the house at 3 o'clock and the procession, which numbered thirty-eight carriages, started for Calvary Cemetary, where the funeral services were held and the body was uried.

A version of the origin of the quarrel which led to the death of Irving and Walsh published in The Publish Innes states that while both men were confined in the Eastern Penitentiary in that city Walsh and a number of other convicts conoccited a plan to escape. Irving, however, felt that Walsh's liberty would be dangerous to him and exposed the scheme to the prison authorities, thereby frustrating and swore revenge. LAST HONORS TO WALSH THE BURGLAR.

Until October 1 they were employed in tenement houses, but on Monday they were put to work in a shop. A foreman was placed over them who was distasteful, and a shop meeting was held, and a committee was appointed to wait on the firm and demand his discharge as well as an advance in pay. Both demands were refused, and the committee was informed that their services were no longer required.

V. W. Woytisik, of the Progressive Union, yesterday denied the statement made at the meeting of cigar manufacturers that there are 1,000 small manufacturers working in tenement houses in violation of the law. He also said that if the manufacturers attempted a general reduction in prices, as spoken of by Mr. Foster, of Foster & Hillson, a general strike would follow.

A TERRIBLE POLISH HUSBAND.

Mrs. Hedwiga Buderyasski, a Polish woman, has called at the District-Attorney's office several times in the last two menths to tell her domestic woes. Her husband, Henry Buderyasski, loved her by no means too well and was indicted over a year age for assaulting her with a knife. At the time that he was arraigned for sentence on August 10, 1882, he pleaded hard for merey, saying that if he were released he would leave the country. Sentence was suspended and the Pole returned to his country. Mrs. Enderyasski a few months ago received a letter informing her that her husband had sworn to return to this country and kill her and his four immediately. FUNERAL OF GEORGE BOLTON ALLEY.

In the parlor of No. 109 East Twenty-first-st., yesterday morning, bay a plain black cloth-covered coffin on which was a silver plate bearing the inscription, "George Bolton Alley. Born March 22, 1831. Died October 16, 1883." Save for a handful of scattered white blossoms and graceful ferns there was nothing to relieve the sombreness of the black covering. Standing around it were the widow, the six children of the dead man, and the six pallbearers, who were Sheppard F. Knapp, Charles Banks, Myron P. Bush, G. Holland, H. Waldo and J. H. De Mott. The Rev. A. B. Carter of Grace Chapel read the burnal service of the Protestant Episcopal Church, and then the body was borne to Greenwood Cemetery. Among those present were Peter Knapp, John R. ONE ARREST THAT LED TO ANOTHER.

Mr. Goldsmith, of the firm of Goldsmith & Plant, cloak manufacturers at Nos. 5 and 7 White-st., on Tnesslay called at Police Headquarters and told Inspector Byrnes that he had suspicions that Henri Wilmarth, one of his employes, had been robbing him of silk for some time, and he desired the assistance of the police in detecting him. Detective-Sergeants Dolan and Heidelberr were detailed on the case, and yesterday when Wilmarth left the store they saw that his overcoat fitted him a trile more tightly than usual. They arrested him, and found $35 worth of silk concealed in his pocket. He was taken to Police Headquarters, where he made a confession. He said that he had been robbing his employers for two weeks and had succeeded in securing about $300 worth of silk, which he had sold to Henry Nelson, who keeps a pawnoffice at No. 185 Grand-st, without a license. The detectives visited Nelson's shop but were mable to find any of Mr. Goldsmith's property. ## When a Fact is Proven

By assertions as open and as positive as the following remark that Mr. Repnett carried this Scrofulous lump, reaching from his knee to his ankle, for twenty years. His triends and acquaintances, his shopmates all knew of it.

A SCROFTLOUS LUMP. 6 COVENTRY STREET, BOSTON, Mass., Dec. 24, 1882.

Twenty one years ago I had typhoid fever. This fever left a weiling on my leg, reaching from ankle to knee, in conse-uence of which that leg was half as big again as the other. or seventeen years this innep remained, giving me small oncern. Four years ago my leg began to trouble me with a terrible and intolerable itching, so that I broke and tore the skin with my nais. It kept running and became a steady sere. I tried most everything that I heard of, for I was hop-ing to get clear of it, and I came to think I should go to my grave with it. My shopmates had read the advertisements of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I learned what wonderful cures it was producing. The itching continued, and was so bad I wanted to take my knife and cut it out to the bone. I had no piece in my life. Early last spring, 1882, I began with Hood's Sarsaparilla, and two bottles cured me. Before half the first bottle was gone I was better. You can't say too much in favor of Hood's Sarsaparilla. If what I have to say will do any good to anybody, I want them to have the benefit of it.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Prepared only by C. 1, HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass. Price $1, six for $5, Sold by druggists.

TRUTH

ABOUT CLOTHING. AT THE BEGINNING OF THE

SEASON WE MARKED OUR MEN'S AND BOYS' CLOTHING AT PRICES WHICH WE BELIEVED WOULD MAKE THEM AT LEAST AS CHEAP AS ANY OF EQUAL QUALITY IN THE CITY, BUT IN VIEW OF THE RECENT ADVERTISEMENTS OF IMMENSE STOCKS AT GREAT REDUCTIONS WE DECIDED AT ONCE TO MAKE A GENUINE AND LARGE MARK. DOWN IN OUR PRICES, WHICH WE HAVE DONE-AND BUYERS CAN SEE THE AMOUNT OF REDUC-TION ON EACH LOT. WHILE NOT THE UNHAPPY POSSESSORS OF A MILLION SQUARE FEET OF ROOM, NOR A MILLION DOLLORS WORTH OF CLOTHING, WE HAVE A GOOD-SIZED ASSORT-MENT OF THE LATEST AND BEST STYLES, RE-PLENISHED DAILY FROM OUR MANUFACTORY AND AN AMPLE AND WELL-LIGHTED STORE WHERE EVERY CUSTOMER CAN SEE PERFECTLY WHAT HE IS BUYING. EVERY MAN, YOUTH AND

BOY NEEDING AN OVERCOAT, SUIT, OR EXTRA

TROUSERS SHOULD EXAMINE OUR STOCK, AND
